Why the Russian Constitution Matters

The Constitutional Dark Arts
William Partlett

This book tells the forgotten story of the 'dark arts' of constitutional law by explaining how Russian President Vladimir Putin used particular rules in the 1993 Russian Constitution to build and safeguard his personal power. These dark arts remind us that constitutions are not just democratic documents; they also can be used by politicians seeking to undermine their opposition and dominate politics.

With democracy under pressure from authoritarianism around the world, this book demonstrates how and where to find the 'devil' in the details of constitutional law.

SECOND EDITION

Repairing British Politics

A Blueprint for Constitutional Change

Richard Gordon KC

The 1st edition of this seminal text was written as a response to the constitutional crisis of 2009, sparked by the 'expenses scandal', which led a general distrust of our entire political order. A decade on it is no exaggeration to say that the situation has dramatically deteriorated. The UK's constitutional order faces an existential crisis, with Brexit placing unbearable pressure on the political and legal architecture. All this makes the need for a written Constitution more pronounced. Retaining the easily accessible style of the first edition, this book addresses how this might be put in place.

Richard Gordon KC, a member of Brick Court Chambers, London, is recognised as one of the UK's leading silks in administrative and public law and human rights. He is a Visiting Professor at University College London and at the Chinese University of Hong Kong.

THIRD EDITION

Judicial Review in Northern Ireland

Gordon Anthony

The 3rd edition of this leading text provides a detailed account of the purposes of judicial review; the public-private divide in Northern Ireland law; judicial review procedure; grounds for review; and remedies. It focuses on case law that is unique to Northern Ireland, and identifies important differences between Northern Ireland and England and Wales, including differences resulting from the Ireland-Northern Ireland Protocol agreed as part of Brexit. This edition explains how and when EU law still applies in Northern Ireland, and considers key Human Rights Act decisions of Northern Irish courts and the House of Lords and the UK Supreme Court.

Gordon Anthony is Professor of Public Law at Queen's University, Belfast; a Barrister at Law; and an Academic Tenant at Francis Taylor Building, UK.

Contagion, Technology, and Law at the Limits

Edited by Lynette J Chua and Jack Jin Gary Lee

This open access book explores law, politics, and inequality in fights against infectious diseases. Guided by a theoretical framework called "governing through contagion", the studies in this book analyse how past and present governments have tried to combat contagious diseases, such as the bubonic plague, cholera, HIV/AIDS, and COVID-19. They examine how these governments used law and other technologies, including waste management, mask-wearing, quarantine stations, house inspections, and the burning of entire neighbourhoods, to achieve their aims of protecting populations and ensuring productivity.

The ebook editions of this book are available open access under a CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 licence on bloomsburycollections.com.

Referendums as Representative Democracy

Leah Trueblood

In referendums on fundamental constitutional issues, do the people come together to make decisions instead of representatives? This book argues that they do not. It offers an alternative theory of referendums whereby they are one of many ordinary ways that voters give direction to their representatives. The book argues that referendums are better understood as exercises in representative democracy.

Challenging the current treatment of referendums in processes of constitutional change both in the United Kingdom and around the world, the book strengthens the case for referendums by showing how they can support, rather than undermine, institutions of representative democracy.

Leah Trueblood is Career Development Fellow in Public Law at Worcester College, Oxford, UK.

AI and the Rule of Law

The Necessary Evolution of a Concept

Paul Burgess

This book considers the ways in which the concept of the rule of law will need to evolve in order to ensure that the exercise of power by Artificial Intelligence (AI) does not become arbitrary and does not proceed unchecked. It presents the rule of law and its impact on the past and the present; considers what AI is, what it does, and what it might become in future; and looks at how AI will need to be harnessed to allow power to be exercised more effectively in the future.

Paul Burgess is Lecturer at the Faculty of Law, Monash University, Australia.

National Security Constitutionalism in the Commonwealth Five Eyes States

Paul F Scott

This book examines the constitutional treatment of national security in the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand. These four states share their Commonwealth heritage and are also members, alongside the United States, of the Five-Eyes intelligence-sharing alliance. The book uses the tools of comparative constitutional law in order to shed light on the institutions

Between Law and Politics

Dieter Grimm

This is a collection of essays from Dieter Grimm, one of Germany's most important constitutional lawyers. The book considers the fundamental questions under scrutiny today: are constitutional courts political or legal institutions? Is judicial review a political or a legal activity? ## EU Regulations in Practice

Legislative and Judicial Approaches

Edited by Adam Lazowski & Alicja Sikora

This book provides a thorough assessment of EU regulations. It also looks at their application in all 27 Member States and some neighbouring countries. EU regulations are perceived as the most effective sources of EU secondary legislation. Part 1 examines these points, providing the analytical backdrop to the remaining chapters. In Parts 2 and 3 the focus moves to the reception of regulations in Member States and selected neighbouring jurisdictions. Written by leading practitioners and academics, the book offers a conceptual underpinning to the European Union's regulatory law-making, as well as a practical exploration of their impact and application.

Private Law and the State

Edited by Andrew Robertson and Jason Neyers

This collection explores the relationship between the state and private law. It does this by addressing four overlapping questions; opening by asking why states recognise and enforce private law obligations and liabilities. It goes on to ask how the state as a legal actor is subject to private law. The third question explored relates to the relationship between private law and public law. Finally, it examines what the role of the public interest is in private law. With the perspective of world-leading commentators, from both academia and the judiciary, this book provides a fascinating assessment of a crucial but complex relationship.

Andrew Robertson is Professor of Law at the University of Melbourne, Australia. Jason Neyers is Professor of Law at Western University, Canada.

Constitutional Reasoning in Latin America and the Caribbean

Edited by Johanna Fröhlich

This book examines the jurisprudence of 15 constitutional courts and supreme courts, including the Caribbean Commonwealth and the Inter-American Court of Human Rights. By looking at the reason-giving practice by courts, the volume considers how Latin American courts justify their decisions, which is the precondition for constructive criticism and improvement. Based on original data and a region-specific methodology, the book provides a systematic analysis utilising more than 600 leading cases. It shows which interpretive methods and concepts are most favoured by Latin American courts, and which courts were the most and the least prolific in their reasoning activities.

Johanna Fröhlich is Assistant Research Professor of Law at the Faculty of Law, Pontifical Catholic University of Chile.

The EFTA Court

Developing the EEA over Three Decades

Edited by The EFTA Court

The EEA Agreement extends the four freedoms (persons, goods, services and capital) to: Iceland, Liechtenstein and Norway. It provides for equal conditions of competition and abolishes discrimination on grounds of nationality. The EFTA Court, celebrating its 30th anniversary in 2024, has jurisdiction over parties to the Agreement. ## The Right to be Oneself

Guido Alpa

What does the right to be oneself entail? And how is it manifest in our understanding of the law?

The leading commentator on this subject explores these questions, taking an ambitious and multi-faceted approach. To answer them, he draws on private law, jurisprudence, constitutional law, as well as history, art and literature. This treatise, translated from the Italian original and expanded to give a more international perspective, is the seminal work on the development of identity-protection through law.

The Evolving Governance of EU Competition Law in a Time of Disruptions

A Constitutional Perspective

Edited by Carlo Maria Colombo, Kathryn Wright and Mariolina Eliantonio

This book analyses the complex trends and transformations emerging in EU competition law in the current turbulent times.

Economic crises, the climate emergency, digitalisation, and geopolitical and democratic threats all have societal and economic effects on the EU. This brings about significant governance and constitutional challenges by questioning how the governance of EU competition law is being transformed to respond and adapt.

The essays in this collection focus on the substantive and procedural developments across the three main policy areas of EU competition law: antitrust, merger control and State aid. It will be invaluable for EU constitutional and competition lawyers.

Parliamentarism and Encyclopaedism

Parliamentary Democracy in an Age of Fragmentation

Giovanni Rizzoni

This book explores a specific aspect of modern parliamentarism: its ability to produce and organise political knowledge.

The book argues that the very meaning of modern parliamentarism cannot properly be understood without considering the cognitive value which is inherent in the representative function discharged by parliaments, vis-a-vis the political community. It does so by studying the 'encyclopaedic patterns' underlying modern parliamentarism. Exploring the concept from ancient times to modernity, it addresses the fundamental question of the relationship between knowledge and democratic decision-making.

This is a truly innovative book; challenging, provocative and asking crucial questions of how parliaments work and legislate.

Giovanni Rizzoni is Head of the Research Service of the Italian Chamber of Deputies. He teaches Comparative Public Law at the Department of Political Sciences of the LUISS University of Rome, Italy.

Gender, Sexuality and Constitutionalism in Asia

Edited by Wen-Chen Chang, Kelley Loper, Mara Malagodi and Ruth Rubio-Marín

Leading comparative constitutional law scholars identify 'opportunity structures' to explain the uneven advancement of gender equality through constitutional litigation and consider a combination of variables which shape the diverging trajectories of the jurisdictions in this study. The authors also embed the relevant constitutional and legal developments in their historical, political and social contexts.

The chapters cover East Asia (Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong, and South Korea), South-East Asia (Malaysia, Singapore, Philippines, and Indonesia), and South Asia (India, Nepal, Pakistan, and Sri Lanka).

Regulation-Making in the United Kingdom and Australia

Democratic Legitimacy, Safeguards and Executive Aggrandisement

Andrew Edgar

This book shines a spotlight on the way in which parliamentary scrutiny of regulations provides the primary support for democratic legitimacy for regulations in the UK and Australia.

This book has two aims. The first is to explain the systems of parliamentary scrutiny in the UK and Australia and their historical development. The second aim is to examine recent developments in regulation-making that avoid or minimise this safeguard.

The book contributes to public law in the UK and Australia by analysing recent developments that involve executive over-reach, by reference to the historical development of parliamentary checks on regulation-making.

Andrew Edgar is Associate Professor at the University of Sydney Law School, Australia.

Democratic Authority

On the Nature and Grounds of the EU's Right to Rule

Josef Weizierl

What is the nature of EU's authority? This book explores this question, and is much needed given the increased scrutiny of the EU's actions in the face of growing nationalism and various other internal and external challenges.

By setting out an original account of the preferred moral standard to evaluate such authority, ie democratic authority, it illustrates how that standard affects the practical reasoning of those subject to the EU's authority. Theoretically significant, the book has important practical value as legitimacy challenges in the EU increase. Constitutional lawyers and theorists, as well as political scientists will welcome this innovative work.

Josef Weizierl is a member of the Bavarian Judiciary, Germany.
